

The Seals of Nam

Bringing the stench of the Namibian Seal Massacre to the nostrils of an Indignant World!!

Namibia is responsible for the largest slaughter of marine mammals on earth.

80 000 baby seals are beaten to death with pick handles. Their pelts are sold for a mere $7.

6 000 adult bull seals are shot at point blank range so that their penises can be used to make ineffective aphrodisiacs.

Cape Fur Seals are a threatened species. They are listed on appendix II of CITES.

Scientists agree the method of slaughter is cruel, inhumane and causes unnecessary suffering.

The annual massacre is in violation of Namibia's Animal Protection Act of 1962.

Science has proven that over fishing and global warming are responsible for a drop in fish stocks, not seals.

South Africa ended their seal cull in 1990. Well managed resources have shown growth.

The USA, Mexico, the EU, Russia, Belarus and Taiwan have all banned the import of seal products based on the inherent cruelty.

Less than 100 people are seasonally employed in the Namibian massacre. They earn below minimum wage.

A report by the Humane Society and WSPA shows eco-tourism will generate THREE HUNDRED times more revenue and create far more jobs in a country desperate for employment.

The Namibian Minister of Fisheries repeatedly ignores the advice and warnings of his own government scientists.

We have instituted an international consumer boycott of Namibia. This boycott has the support of numerous South African celebrities. Leona Lewis has also condemned the hunt

Our partners include Beauty Without Cruelty, The Jane Goodall Institute, Fur Free SA, WEEAC, Bite Back, The African Conservation Foundation and numerous others.
